

With the rapid development of automobile intelligence and electronics, automobile electronic systems are becoming increasingly large, and the electromagnetic compatibility requirements between various systems are higher, which also requires higher electromagnetic radiation requirements between various systems.

LFC provides customers with different solution options. EMI IC provides customers with Low EMI solutions, which can adjust the spread spectrum amplitude according to customer system requirements; EMI OSC can meet customers' small size requirements and provide Low EMI clock requirements. .

Original

LX304